

Certified Access Specialists Serving San Francisco Small Businesses

A critical step in bringing your business into compliance with the American with Disabilities Act (ADA) is selecting a Certified Access Specialist. Through an inspection report, a Certified Access Specialist (CAsp) will identify ADA barriers found at your business and describe the barrier removal requirements to comply with federal and state accessibility guidelines.

Price, report thoroughness, location and availability are all factors to consider when selecting a CAsp inspector. For San Francisco small businesses, experience is key. The City's distinct topography and preservation of historic elements of old buildings pose unique accessibility challenges not found in other cities. A qualified CAsp inspector should have experience navigating the San Francisco building code and working with local businesses.

We've compiled a list of CAsp inspectors that attested to the following criteria:

- I am well-versed in the nuances of the San Francisco building code. This includes familiarity with the Planning Department's Historic Preservation and Public Works' Infrastructure Design and Construction division.
- I have conducted CAsp inspection reports for at least 5 businesses in San Francisco.
- I am available to conduct CAsp inspection reports for San Francisco businesses.
- I am experienced in construction, design, and inspection.
